

„The Beach“

The film „The Beach“ is about a boy named Richard who travels to Bangkok for new experiences. In his hotel he meets a man who gives him a map that shows the way to a secret island. Richard decides to go there with his hotel neighbours but what they find there is an extremely guarded huge weed plantation. Luckily they sneak around the guards and find a village of tourists that came there too but decided to stay on this island. With his friends he goes through lots of adventures and earns lots of experiences but one day the farmers that maintain the weed plantations force all the people that lived in the village to go back on mainland because there were coming too many new tourists to their island.

The film was shot on the island Ko Phi Phi and is situated in the Andaman Sea at the west coast of Thailand. Nowadays there are living a few fishermen in the smaller part of the island. In the bigger part, where the film was made, there are some huge inaccessible rocky islands that are around a small beach. Overall the island Ko Phi Phi is a beautiful place of nature with nice beaches.